COURSE OVERVIEW

The Level 3: Occupational Therapy - Attachment and Trauma in Practice training series engages small groups focused on theory, the deeper impact of trauma and attachment, and participant case studies. Participants will receive a template to support information sharing. Scores are derived according to a rubric at the end of the course with an emphasis on growing one's understanding, not on pass/fail. Upon completion of Level 3, ATTACH will acknowledge the participant's full completion of the training with a certificate.

WHAT YOU WILL LEARN (OBJECTIVES)

- Define and discuss different aspects regarding resilience, empathy, and the shame / blame continuum.
- Present clinical questions of own case material to extend and expand clinical reasoning.
- Describe the different components of a team approach considering the scope of practice as occupational therapists.
- State key components of assessment according to current setting and work environment
- Derive increased clinical understanding of their own case study as well as from the other cases presented.
- Create a clear, sequential picture from background, through assessment and intervention to support the clinical process of increased function in clients

INSTRUCTORS

Maude Le Roux – Maude Le Roux serves on the Board of Directors for ATTACH and is instrumental in developing the training curriculum for OT's on behalf of ATTACH. She is a gifted speaker with a wide array of interests and specialties and brings with her a holistic and expansive view on treatment in pediatric care. While she is sensory and “body” based in her approach to assessment and intervention, she also favors the essence of what the emotional psyche brings to the table. Maude directs her own online academy for training in a variety of different tracks, as well as continues to maintain her private practice in Glen Mills, PA www.maudeleroux.com

Lara Taggart, Ed.D., OTR/L is an Assistant Clinical Professor at Northern Arizona State University (NAU) Occupational Therapy Doctorate Program since July of 2015. She holds a master's degree in Occupational Therapy (OT) and a bachelor's degree in Applied Psychology. Her research interests are in infant mental health and the relationship between child and caregiver sensory processing patterns and bonding. She has worked as an OT in various settings, which included outpatient/inpatient rehabilitation for adult and pediatric populations, school setting, and early intervention. Lara has served on the Executive Board of the Arizona Occupational Therapy Association as President and in Pediatric and Neuro Special Interest Groups. She is currently the Arizona Representative Assembly for the national OT board (American Occupational Therapy Association).
